Confident Demo Nominee Names Security Aides

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is sailing along on a wave of outward confidence that seldom has been equaled in a presidential candidate since Thomas E. Dewey ran in 1948.

The Democratic nominee announced Tuesday a group of experts already had been chosen to advise him on national security policies between the November election and inauguration day in January—if he is elected.

While no one was saying the situations were parallel, old timers recalled hearing Dewey "leak" his cabinet choices a couple of weeks before he was defeated 12 years ago by Harry S. Truman.

Kennedy said he intends during the campaign to criticize vigorously various aspects of current national security policies, but he said his "criticism will be responsible and constructive."

He said he does not expect these chosen advisers to be active in the campaign, but rather to help him frame policies between election and inauguration.

Kennedy criticized the Eisenhower administration for not bringing Democrats into its councils. The four he named have served the GOP administration in advisory capacities from time to time.

They are: Paul H. Nitze, former director of the State Department staff, who said he is a former Republican turned Democrat. He was an adviser to the Gaither Committee which reported to Eisenhower on defense matters.

David K. Bruce, a Democrat, who served as ambassador to Germany from 1957 to 1959.

Roswell L. Gilpatrick, an independent who supported GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's election in New York. He served on the Rockefeller Special Studies Project in 1956 and 1957.

James A. Perkins, listed by Democratic National Chairman Henry M. Jackson as either a Republican or an independent. He served on the Gaither Committee.

At a farewell ceremony the commander, Col. Lucien Champion, wished his men luck and thanked them for their work in protecting white residents of Katanga.

Pair May Have Fled To Syrian Region Of UAR

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Investigators Tuesday sought two messengers in Jordan's Press Bureau, one a former employee of the United Arab Republic, in the time bomb assassination of Premier Hazza Majali.

Investigators said the two messengers disappeared shortly before two bombs killed Majali and 10 other persons and wounded 41. They said the two may have escaped to the Syrian region of the U.A.R. A third messenger is being questioned.

The feud between Jordan's young King Hussein and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the U.A.R. is one of the most dangerous in the Middle East and frequently has erupted in charges of plots and counterplots.

A special committee began investigating the explosions Monday in the government offices which killed Majali, regarded in Cairo as one of Nasser's strongest foes in Jordan.

Others killed included Sheikh Jamal Majali, head of the Majali family; Foreign Undersecretary Zaha Eddin Humoud; and Asem Tajl, chief of the Tourist Department.

Sources close to the investigators said the two missing messengers, Kamal Shammout and Shaker Dabbas, were believed to have planted the bombs in Majali's office and in the office of the Press Bureau.

Amman quickly recovered the outward appearance of business as usual, despite the latest threat to Middle East equilibrium.

Bahjat el Taihouni, 45, chief of the Cabinet, promptly took over as head of a 11-man government that included all members of the Majali Cabinet.

A curfew was lifted, and airports were reopened. Traffic in the streets was normal, but armored cars still guarded important points in the city.

Valuable Code Info Reported Taken By Pair

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two American intelligence specialists presumed to have fled behind the Iron Curtain in June were said Tuesday to have taken with them "valuable cryptographic information."

Rep. John W. McCormack (D-Mass.), saying he learned this from usually reliable sources, declared the loss "is far more serious than any official has publicly admitted." The Pentagon has indicated neither man had access to any secret information the Soviets would find valuable.

McCormack, House Democratic leader, passed on his remarks to Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He urged that the committee investigate the case.

The two, Bernard Mitchell, 31, of Eureka, Calif., and William N. Martin, 29, of Ellensburg, Wash., had been employed since 1957 as mathematical analysts at the National Security Agency at nearby Ft. Meade, Md.

No Press Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House announced Tuesday that President Eisenhower will not hold a news conference this week.

Good Ol' Mel, as the Marines who whipped up this bit of nonsense refer to the man from Peoria, is due in Los Angeles Wednesday night. A whooping, whopping, wonderful seven days are in store for him.

For the benefit of those who have been out of touch, this all started as a gag Joe Gestson, a Marine captain when it began but a major now (a coincidence, Mel, but before the week is over you may get credit for Joe's promotion) mislaid his car.

Some joker said, "try Peoria." Joe did. He pulled the name Melvin Miller out of the air and asked the operator to get Mel. And so a friendship—with Mel Miller T-shirts, pennants, hats and, well, take a look:

POISON VICTIM — Police at Pearisburg, Va., have charged Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Adams Giles, 29, with murder of her 3-year-old son, Terry (above), by arsenic poison. Three other children are apparently recovering satisfactorily. Police said she denied the charge. (AP Photofax)

Hospitalized Nixon Revamps Plans, Sees Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon spent his second day in the hospital Tuesday but his spokesman said "We don't look for any lessening in the intensity" of his presidential campaign.

The word from the Nixon camp was that the GOP presidential nominee, in addition to being treated satisfactorily for an infected knee, was busy revamping his campaign plans.

He was said to have worked sitting up in bed, and to have dictated speech drafts to his executive secretary, Miss Rosemary Woods.

Nixon conferred by telephone with aides and had a visit from Mrs. Nixon. Late this afternoon President Eisenhower dropped in to see him at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

It was announced that Nixon's vice presidential running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, will sub for Nixon at some functions during the two weeks he is expected to be hospitalized. Lodge will give up his job as U.N. ambassador on Saturday.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary who made the announcements, said also that former Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall will substitute for Nixon Wednesday at a seminar here for Republican House candidates.

Klein said treatment of Nixon's leg with five antibiotics is "progressing satisfactorily."

He said the infection is localized in the left knee joint and the swelling on the outside of the knee has "gone down to some degree."

"Except for pain in his left knee, the vice president continues to feel very well," Klein said. "He has no fever. His appetite is good and his general physical condition is excellent."

Nixon's infection stems from an injury he suffered when he bumped an automobile door during a campaign trip in Greensboro, N.C., on Aug. 17.

Klein said Nixon's spirits are very good. He stayed in bed throughout the day, Klein said, "because we wanted to keep him quiet."

Soviets Said To Aid Congo Katanga Invasion Buildup

100 Russian Trucks Sent To Interior

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Congo government sent more troops to Kasai province Tuesday in an apparent buildup for invasion of secessionist Katanga province with reported Communist help.

"I can assure you the Congolese are not doing it themselves," a Soviet source said. By a count of Communist newsmen 100 Soviet trucks of the type used here for transporting troops have been sent to the interior.

Ten Soviet Ilyushin-14 planes are being flown to the Congo and are expected to arrive in Stanleyville within a few days. The purpose of the flight is not known but it is being rumored they may be piloted by Czechs and that a new airline may be started with them to replace the old Belgian line now known as Air Congo.

All Belgian Troops Leave

The developments came as the United Nations reported all Belgian combat troops had left the Congo by last midnight. Only a number of Belgian specialists remain in the big camps of Kamina in Katanga province and Kitona near Leopoldville.

The Katanga camp became the center of a dispute between Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe and the United Nations. Tshombe threatened Tuesday to put Kamina Base out of action unless the U.N. hands over the security of the base to the Katanga Army. The U.N. wants the base neutralized and prohibited to all troops but U.N. forces. The installation would be of paramount importance in any invasion or defense of Katanga province.

Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba, who told Congolese troops in the Oriental province capital of Stanleyville over the weekend of an impending march on Katanga, returned to Leopoldville Tuesday and went directly to Camp Leopold II where his army has its headquarters.

"Profound Reform" Ordered

He said he had ordered a "profound reform of the ancient structure" of society in the province under which the territories formerly ruled by tribal chiefs would become rural communes. He also told of a decision to create peasant cooperatives to "mobilize all the forces of the country for a vast economic and social program."

The pronouncements had the authentic ring of the left-wing advisers who have moved into Lumumba's entourage and are now penetrating many government departments.

Whatever the truth of the battle reports, secessionist Albert Kalonji began recruiting a private army in Elisabethville, Katanga's capital. A Baluba chieftain of Kasai province, Kalonji's avowed aim is to recapture the Kasai area he calls his "mineral state" and its capital, Bakwanga, which he lost to Lumumba's soldiers Saturday.

Adlai Subs For Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Democratic Presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson agreed Tuesday to substitute for Vice President Richard M. Nixon as principal speaker at the American Bar Association's annual dinner Thursday night.

The Republican standard-bearer was forced to cancel his scheduled speech when he was hospitalized Monday with an infected knee.

Policeman Shot In Bandit Chase

Patrolman Robert Bassler lies wounded on New York's Sixth Avenue, between 50th and 51st Streets, after being shot in the chest in chase of gunmen who held up offices of a firm dealing in American and foreign currencies in the Rockefeller Center area yesterday. One bandit was slain, another captured and a third escaped. Most of the $10,000 taken by the trio was recovered. (Story at bottom of page)

House Probers Hint Of Possible ICC Corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators said Tuesday they had turned up indications of "irregularities and even possible corruption" in the Interstate Commerce Commission's regulation of trucking.

Chairman Oren Harris of a House investigating subcommittee leveled the charge at a public hearing after meeting with only partial success in an effort to obtain company records from officials of two New York trucking companies.

Harris said staff investigators had evidence indicating that a New York trucking corporation received favorable ICC treatment although the agency had or should have had knowledge of the company's violation of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Harris identified the company as the Interstate Dress Carriers, Inc., a New York corporation which hauls garments.

The corporation's secretary, treasurer, Jack Lieberman, rejected Harris' request that he give the subcommittee the firm's books and records.

The subcommittee earlier had called in Joseph Reznitsky, president of the Gold Star Freight Lines, Inc., and requested him to turn over documents relating to his firm's operations.

Reznitsky complied. Among the papers he turned over was a promissory note, dated Oct. 2, 1954, showing that he had borrowed $35,000 from Lieberman's firm. It was not immediately clear whether this figured in the congressional inquiry.

New Orleans School Integration Delayed

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A federal judge ordered Tuesday a delay in public school integration in New Orleans until Nov. 14.

That date is the start of the second quarter of the school year. The Orleans Parish School Board, in a meeting Monday with Judge J. Skelly Wright, had asked for the delay to prepare an integration plan.

Attorneys for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People met with the judge Tuesday and opposed any delay or modification of his May 16 order to integrate the first grades.

Father Offers To Take Powers' Place In Prison

NEW YORK (AP) — The father of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers has offered to take his son's place in a Soviet prison.

The offer was disclosed Tuesday by Life magazine. The publication defrayed expenses of the father, Oliver W. Powers, and other family members in attending the flier's espionage trial in Moscow.

Before leaving Moscow, the magazine said, the father wrote Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev asking a chance to discuss switching places with his son.

"After all," the elder Powers was quoted as saying, "I'm 55 and getting old. The boy is young. There's a lot he can do in the world."

Cuba Discloses Roa Plane Plot

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban ministerial palace said Foreign Minister Raul Roa returned home from the San Jose conference in a chartered Costa Rican plane earlier than expected Tuesday because "counterrevolutionary mercenaries" planned to intercept and force down Roa's own special plane.

Roa arrived here from the Western Hemisphere foreign ministers meeting almost five hours ahead of schedule. There were no officials at the airport to greet him. A mass turnout had been planned to demonstrate support for Cuba's walkout from the San Jose conference.

Meanwhile, a Cubana Airline plane scheduled to return to the San Jose airport on the orders of Costa Rican President Mario Echandi. The reasons for the detention were not given.

Bandit Slain In Chase

NEW YORK (AP) — A $10,000 robbery in Rockefeller Center touched off a bullet-spattered chase through crowded streets Tuesday. One bandit was slain, another captured and a third escaped.

Two policemen were wounded, one seriously. Thousands of frightened bystanders watched the big town drama after a foreign and domestic currency firm was robbed in the RCA Building—on 50th Street opposite Radio City Music Hall.

Traffic was snarled all around the Center. Dick Jennings, assistant managing editor of National Broadcasting Co.'s "Monitor" radio show, turned out a hero. He followed a bandit identified as Charles Trischler, 22, of Hoboken, N.J., a mile on foot and by cab until he could find a policeman to make the arrest. Trischler was finally stopped at the Lincoln Tunnel, under the Hudson River.

The wounded policemen were Peter Gallagher, grazed by a bullet over his right ear, and Donald Baesler, shot in the chest and wounded seriously. Both were hit while trying to stop the taxi.

Castro Blasts OAS In Calling For Giant Rally

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro summoned Tuesday a "general assembly of the Cuban people" to repudiate the declaration of San Jose denouncing Communist intervention in the Americas.

Bitterly sarcastic, Cuba's revolutionary leader called a giant mass meeting for Friday to give his country's formal reply to the American foreign ministers meeting in Costa Rica. His acceptance of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's promise of rocket support against any U.S. attack on Cuba provoked the declaration.

Castro told a group of teachers the meeting at San Jose was between the "Yankee empire shark" and the "Latin American sardines."

Castro called the San Jose meeting "one of the blackest and most repugnant" in history.

He told the teachers the United States was the "accomplice of as many exploiters, as many loan sharks, as many bandits as there are in the world," and had bought the signatories at San Jose with a proposed 500 million dollar aid program for Latin America and the allocation of the 700,000 tons of sugar cut from Cuba's quota.

"But they can't buy the Cuban people," he said.

Referring to the Latin American foreign ministers at San Jose as "shameless," Castro said they attempted to show some honor to cover their nakedness "until Mr. (Secretary of State Christian A.) Herter suddenly ripped off the fig leaf."

Despite his bitterness, the bearded prime minister gave no hint that Cuba planned to walk out of the Organization of American States.

ABA Shuns Urging Communism Classes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The policy-making body of the American Bar Assn. declined Tuesday to urge courses on international communism in high schools. Instead, it ordered further study of the suggestion.

Delegates who discussed the proposal before the ABA's House of Delegates generally expressed sympathy with it but some expressed the opinion that it might be interpreted as telling schools what they should teach.

The House of Delegates decided 114-39 on a standing vote to refer to its Board of Governors for further study the suggestion put forward by Lewis F. Powell Jr. of Richmond, Va.

Minimum Pay Talks Halted By Conferees

House Delegation Refuses To Budge On Coverage Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee wrote a virtual death sentence Tuesday for Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy's hopes of winning a boost in the minimum wage this election year.

After days of fruitless haggling, the conferees parted in apparently unbreakable deadlock on the issue of how many additional workers should be covered by the federal wage floor.

The Senate-House group also differed on how much to increase the present $1-an-hour federal wage floor, but agreement might have been reached on this if the coverage dispute could have been settled.

Nobody pronounced the bill officially dead. But events made this only a formality.

Sen. Kennedy, head of the Senate conferees, said there were no plans to call the group together again. Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-NC), chief of the House delegation, said the chances of any further sessions were very remote.

House Conferees Stand Firm

At both meetings Tuesday the Senate conferees offered — in different ways — to scale down the broadened coverage of the minimum wage law from the four million additional workers provided in the Senate bill.

First they proposed a 3,100,000 figure and then they suggested a $1.15 wage floor — as compared with the Senate's $1.25 — and about 3,300,000 newly covered workers.

The House conferees turned down both proposals. Kennedy said the House conferees refused to budge from the House bill, which would extend minimum wage coverage to 1,400,000 employees not now covered.

It wasn't on the minimum wage issue alone that the House had its back up.

House balks at Aid Boost

The House refused to go along with the Senate in boosting foreign aid funds by 190 million dollars in response to pleas from President Eisenhower.

A catch-all appropriation bill including the 190 million dollars more for overseas aid was sent to conference with the Senate.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) at first objected to sending the bill to a compromise-seeking conference committee. But he relented when he was assured House spokesmen would not give in fully to the Senate.

What galled House members was that the Senate had switched position so quickly after agreeing with the House only last week on a 265-million-dollar cut in the regular foreign aid money bill.

The minimum wage and foreign aid issues were the chief obstacles to speedy adjournment of this post-convention session of Congress.

There was talk in the cloak-rooms of winding up the session by Wednesday night. But some leaders spoke in terms of quitting Thursday or Friday night.

Titan Missile Roars 5,000 Miles In Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A powerful Titan missile sped 5,000 miles Tuesday in the second straight success for the operational prototype of this intercontinental range weapon.

The Air Force reported the 98-foot giant achieved all flight test objectives in plucking its tactical-type nose cone in a pre-selected impact area in the south Atlantic. The Titan, propelled at speeds up to 15,000 miles an hour, covered the distance in about 25 minutes.

Ships and planes began an immediate search for a cone capsule that ejected from the cone and parachuted into the water.

Struggle For B&O Moves To Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—The struggle by two railroads for control of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad moved directly Tuesday to the headquarters city of the carrier whose president still favors a three-way merger.

Walter J. Touhy, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, took his company's case to Mayor J. Harold Grady, Baltimore port officials, financial leaders and others involved in the battle for B&O stock.

At the same time, the downtown offices of the B&O made public a letter to employees from President H. E. Simpson. In it Simpson restated his position that a merger of the B&O, C&O and New York Central would be better for stockholders and the general public.

Wednesday, President Alfred E. Perlman of NYC is scheduled to explain to a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club of Baltimore why his railroad wants to get in on the merger.

Simpson, in his letter, said he met with both Touhy and Perlman last Aug. 15 and although the session adjourned without agreement "I informed them that the B&O stands ready to propose to our stockholders a merger of the three companies."

"It is clear that neither the railroads nor the public interest will be advanced by the current struggle," Simpson added.

Simpson said under a three-way merger the new railroad would be managed by a board of directors selected initially from the membership of the present boards with the same number being picked from each.

The board would elect committees and officers "without prior commitment to any present officers of any of the three companies," Simpson told the B&O employees.

As for apportionment of stock of the new corporation among present stockholders of the three companies, Simpson said the B&O was willing to approve any "demonstrably fair ratios of exchange acceptable to the C&O and Central boards."

Simpson reported that a three-way merger would create a railroad system of about 21,000 route-miles doing a gross business of about $1.5 billion a year.

"The subsidized competition of other forms of transportation," he wrote, "makes it essential that the railroads strengthen themselves by joining together."

"The potential savings that could result," Simpson said, "would be in the interest of the shipping and traveling public, the stockholders and the employees as well as the railroad industry and the nation."

Touhy, seeking a C&O-B&O merger only, was confident before conferring with Mayor Grady that the C&O's two-company proposal would win.

He said the C&O's sound financial position, good facilities and equipment would help rejuvenate the B&O. He pointed out that the C&O trackage lies roughly south of the B&O lines and covers heavily industrialized Michigan where the B&O tracks end.

Comparing the offers of the C&O and New York Central, Touhy argued that a merger of the C&O and B&O would not result in reduced taxes for the various states and loss of jobs for railroaders. He said the NYC offer would eliminate facilities that duplicate that of the B&O.

He added, however, his railroad has promised the New York Central to give serious consideration to a later merger of the C&O-B&O combine with the NYC.

This, Touhy added, would be a natural next step.

Khrush Calls Nixon, Kennedy 'Pair Of Boots'

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev said Tuesday U.S. presidential candidates Richard M. Nixon and John F. Kennedy look the same—equally undesirable—to the Communist world.

"They are a pair of boots," the Soviet premier said.

"Which is better, the right or left boot?" he asked. "It would be difficult to distinguish between them."

Khrushchev called Vice President Nixon and Sen. Kennedy "lackeys of monopoly capital" who are trying to outdo each other in their anti-Communist blasts.

Khrushchev, addressing a luncheon party in Moscow, said he wanted to give his appraisal of the two men "in order to put an end to talks that I favor one presidential candidate and not the other."

Of the two, the premier said, he knew less about Kennedy, having only talked with him briefly in Washington on his U.S. tour last year.

Shipyard Walkout Apparently Averted

BALTIMORE (AP)—A strike of Baltimore shipyard workers threatened Wednesday apparently has been averted.

The Maryland Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. and Marine and Shipbuilding Workers Local 31 announced Tuesday agreement on contract provisions.

Employees were to vote on the proposal which Federal Mediator Gilbert Lee said union officers termed a "very fair and good agreement."

Stiles Families Sweep Jersey Awards At Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP)—The Stiles families, who live on farms in Montgomery, Howard, Frederick and Washington counties, swept every award Tuesday in the judging of 4-H Jersey cattle at the State Fair.

The children of brothers George, John, Frank and Robert took first place in every division and also won the junior, senior and grand championships.

The senior and grand champion Jersey was a senior cow shown by Betty Ann Stiles, 16, who will be entering her senior year in Frederick High School this fall. This was the fourth year in a row she has won the top prize at the fair.

Betty Ann is the daughter of John, who has won quite a few honors himself in Jersey cattle open judging at the State Fair and various county fairs.

Betty's brother, Clifford, placed second in the senior Jersey competition and came in first in three other Jersey divisions.

But the junior champion honors went to Betty's cousin, David Stiles, of Boonsboro, Washington County.

Betty said she has been active in 4-H activities for eight years and usually shows her pet Jerseys in several county fairs before coming to Timonium.

Her father John said the clan of four families always has been partial to Jerseys. He explained it this way: "Up in those hills, it doesn't take as much to feed them."

John has a 300-acre farm near Mt. Airy. His brother Frank lives on a 200-acre farm in nearby Howard County; brother George lives in Washington County on farms totaling 350 acres, and brother Robert lives on the old Stiles family farm near Rockville, Montgomery County.

The four brothers have a total of 13 children who have been active in 4-H Club work. They invariably show Jersey cattle and just as invariably take most of the prizes.

Use Of Watch Dogs At Schools Proposed

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—The use of watch dogs to discourage vandalism at schools was recommended Monday night by C. Taylor Whittier, superintendent of Montgomery County schools.

He suggested that the school board consider buying a dog for each of the county's large schools. The specially-trained dogs, which would cost $1,000 each, would be used in conjunction with night watchmen.

Whittier said such dogs are being used to prevent vandalism at Columbia University in New York City.

98 In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—Three persons were felled by heat prostration in Baltimore Tuesday as the temperature hit 98 degrees, the city's hottest day since Aug. 21 last year.

Lana, Sportsman Take Out License

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—Lana Turner and sportsman Fred May got a marriage license Tuesday. But the couple said they are keeping their wedding plans secret.

Miss Turner gave her age as 39, May 43.

They have been almost constant companions for nearly a year.

Miss Turner has made a profitable box-office comeback since the 1958 slaying of her hoodlum lover, Johnny Stompanato. Police found Stompanato with a kitchen knife in his chest, in the blonde actress' pink bedroom in Beverly Hills.

Her daughter, Cheryl Crane, now 16, told investigators she stabbed Stompanato because he threatened her mother.

The former sweater girl of the 1940s has been married four times—to bandleader Artie Shaw, restaurateur Stephen Crane, sportsman Bob Topping and actor Lex Barker.

Tawes To Back Bill Abolishing State's Presidential Primary

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Tuesday he will support legislation to abolish Maryland's presidential primary at the next session of the General Assembly.

"Only 15 states have a presidential primary, and in most of these it is a formality—not binding on the delegates at all," the governor said in an interview.

"Since Maryland is one of the few states where the nomination is binding, and not all the candidates enter it, I earnestly believe I could give my support to such a (repeal) bill."

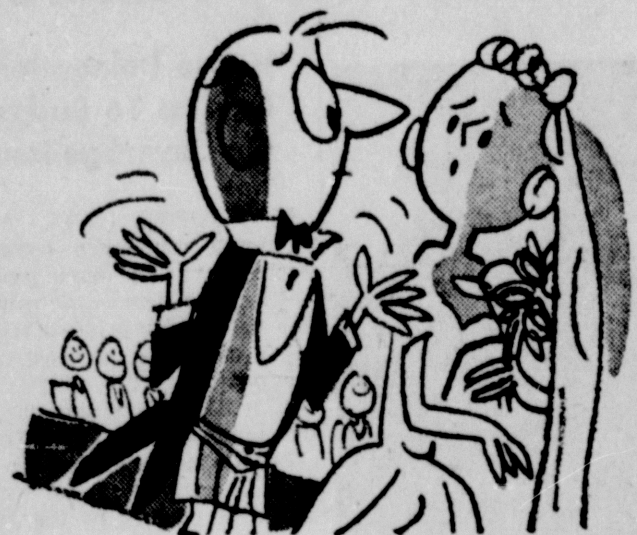

The governor said he had been advised that the repealer will be introduced in the Senate in the 90-day session which begins in January. He said while he would have to examine the bill to see just what it would do, he supports wholeheartedly the principle of such legislation.

County Appoints Women As Elementary Teachers

Two teaching assignments in college laboratory school and at Cumberland elementary schools were announced yesterday by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools.

Mrs. Carol Jean (Lannon) Lloyd, Winchester Road, will be on the faculty of West Side School.

Mrs. Susan (Bampton) Kidwell, Paradise Street, Midland, will teach at John Humbird School.

A 1956 graduate of Allegany High School, Mrs. Lloyd was graduated from Frostburg State Teachers College in June.

She did her practice teaching at Thomas G. Pullen School, the

The city has informed the State Roads Commission that it does not feel it should enter into a contract to vacate Wineow Street at this time in connection with the Cumberland Thruway bridge over the B&O Railroad.

The letter to John D. Bushby, SRC District 6 engineer, followed receipt from Bushby of a copy of a tentative agreement in connection with construction of the Wineow Street overhead.

The city's letter, signed by Mayor J. Edwin Keech, said it did not want to vacate Wineow other than the portion occupied by the subway. Then it added:

"The subway should not be closed to vehicular traffic until the latest possible date."

The city said it felt any construction necessary that would result in closing the street should be scheduled in the latter part of the overhead project.

"We feel that such scheduling is necessary so that there would be a minimum period in which a detour for persons traveling to and from South Cumberland would be in effect," the letter said.

The city will contribute only land for the project it actually owned on August 30, 1955, which is the date of the original contract between the city and SRC in connection with the Thruway.

When the overhead facility is opened, the city said it will close Wineow Street to a point where the SRC and/or B&O Railroad will own the property on both sides of the street. It said a cul-de-sac (turn around area) would be constructed on the northern end and assumed that some ar-

Poultry Workers Back On Job

The Sterling Processing Corporation plant in Oakland, strike-bound since August 1, was back in full production yesterday.

The 125 employees, representing a full force, were back at their jobs, at the poultry processing plant yesterday.

Over the weekend a two and one-half year contract was signed affecting members of Pittsburgh Local 424, Meat Cutters Union, and Cumberland Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union.

rangements will be made at the southern end of the subway so that Oldtown Road will not be dead and will connect with Thomas Street or some other street that would allow egress from the area.

Mayor Keech said public utilities having lines in the area will be requested to relocate them, the cost if any, being borne by the SRC. It added that Potomac Edison Company has certain installations in the area which are on land owned by the utility and added that acquisition of the property should be SRC responsibility.

The letter further stated that the city must approve any plans for lighting the bridge and its approaches. At this time, it pointed out, the city has made no provisions for funds for lighting and must know what is involved in dollars and cents prior to making any commitment.

The water line serving property in the immediate vicinity, which runs through Wineow Street subway, would be relocated on the construct a paved street running bridge superstructure and it is felt a contract for bridge construction should also include a water line relocation subject to option of the city to accept or reject the contract amount for this item. The city would pay the cost for this relocation.

Keech suggested that a meeting be arranged between the SRC and Mayor and Council to discuss the agreement if Bushby deemed it necessary.

Ann Landers ...

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a very lonely teen-ager. Polio has left me with a withered arm and a limp. People shun me.

I've read books on how to get along with people, but they don't apply to cripples. My parents have had nice parties and invited kids my age. They come but they don't invite me back. I've asked girls to go out with me, but they find polite excuses to refuse.

I'm not hard to look at and my condition isn't bad enough to create pity. The worst part of it is the limp.

I'm not feeling sorry for myself because I know there are many handicapped people in this world who are a lot worse off than I am. Can you help me? I'll settle for just one good friend.

-C. V.

DEAR C. V.: If you are lonely and without friends it's not because of the crippling effects of polio. The real handicap is your personality and your sour outlook on life. So long as you harbor the notion that a limp can stand in the way of your happiness — it will.

Millions of people who are not only handicapped but disfigured have a wide circle of interesting friends; they lead full lives, are invited, included, elected to office and marry and have fine families.

Re-read some of those books and then put the information to use. Knowledge is of no value unless you put it to work for you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I go with a nice social group. A couple whom I will call Opal and John are our closest friends.

We've had several parties for new people in town and have always asked Opal and John. Almost without exception Opal and John have latched on to the new people, invited them over, and left us out.

Because of our kindness, Opal and John are well established socially — in fact they get many more invitations than we do. We are having a party soon for new friends. Shall we include Opal and John? — USED PAIR

DEAR USED: I sense in your letter a tone of possessiveness which is unhealthy. Invite people to your home because you enjoy them, not because you want to be invited to theirs every time they entertain.

All friendships thrive better and last longer when you give one another breathing space. I see no reason to invite O. and P. every time you entertain. In fact it would be better if you didn't.

DEAR ANN: We have two sons, six and eight years of age. They like to watch TV, which my wife thinks is fine because it keeps

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A Sure Cure For Boredom—Appreciation!

Living right in the midst of an exciting world that is jam-packed with ideas and events, sights and sounds, some people are able to withdraw into a vacuum and, though it takes a little time, die of boredom!

How do they do it? By one simple little maneuver: For all normal and natural reactions, they just substitute a kind of mental crutch.

Whenever they are faced with a new thought or something unfamiliar, their comment is a flat, stifling, "I don't like it." With those words it's impossible to keep almost anything new or different from ever entering your life!

The first time they used the crutch, it was to keep someone from discovering their ignorance about something they hated to admit they did not know.

And because their listeners appeared to let them get by with this little subterfuge, they tried it again . . . and again. Until now they hardly remember that it was a subterfuge!

"I don't like classical music," they say. Or perhaps it's modern painting or popular music, or poetry which they seek to shrug off with a look down their noses from half-closed eyes.

But as anyone knows who has tasted the fruits of the arts, they cannot be dismissed so lightly! That is, unless you hate living itself.

For all good or great works of art are a mirror of living — an expression or interpretation of life often different from your own. And that is what makes them enchanting and interesting!

Through sights, sounds, movements and thoughts, every good painter, musician, writer, or dancer stimulates your thinking or emotional power — and often jars even rusty imaginations loose for a brief, entertaining flight! For enjoyment, all you have to do is learn to appreciate their work!

You'll find a sure, swift cure for boredom, if you'll only try some unfamiliar fruit from the tree of arts. You'll find it so varied that it will supply you with something new and fresh to fill your mind, occupy your time, and make you more interesting to others every day of the year!

Two Shopping Center Leases Are Recorded

Two 20-year leases for stores to be constructed in the $950,000 LaVale Plaza shopping center on U. S. Route 40 near its intersection with Winchester Road were filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

One of the leases was signed by McCrory-McLellan Stores Corporation, a Delaware corporation, for 20 years from September 1, 1961. The other, signed by W. T. Grant Company, also a Delaware corporation, was for 20 years, beginning August 1, 1961, and ending July 31, 1981.

Three deeds transferring title of the shopping center land from LaVale Plaza, Inc., a Maryland corporation, to the LaVale Plaza Building Company, a New York co-partnership consisting of Wylie F. L. Tuttle and Herbert Papock, also were recorded yesterday. There was no consideration in this transaction.

Infirmary Gets $10 License

H. G. Fritz, chief of the Division of Hospital Service of the State Health Department, yesterday submitted a $10 license which allows Allegany County to maintain and operate the County Infirmary until July 1, 1961.

This annual license also provides that the county shall maintain 95 beds in the institution.

The commissioners also yesterday received copies of three resolutions adopted at the weekend meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners at Ocean City. Chief among these is the endorsement of a constitutional amendment to be voted upon November 8 by the voters of Maryland. This proposed amendment would allow the counties, town and cities of Maryland to engage, on a local option basis, in urban renewal activities. The state association urges all civic, fraternal and business associations to do what ever is possible to inform the public of the importance of favorable action on this amendment.

Men Of St. Paul's Plan Outing Today

The Men of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold a dinner and outing along with the men of Trinity Lutheran Church of Bedford, Pa., at the Sammel Lodge near Rainsburg, Pa.

Four young people of St. Paul's will speak of their experiences in Luther League workshops which they attended. The participants were Cynthia Siehler, Donna George, Jane Sammel and Fred Macy. Rev. John F. Sammel, pastor, will talk about his recent trip to the western section of the United States.

County Cattle To Be Sprayed

Theodore Bissell, extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, will spray beef cattle on three Allegany County farms for heel fly grub control.

County Agent Joseph M. Steger said Mr. Bissell will visit the farms of Brady H. Dolly, Stonestreet brothers and Martin M. Gordon in the Murley's Branch area toward Flintstone.

Mr. Bissell is scheduled to arrive at Mr. Dolly's farm between 10:30 and 11 a. m. today. Interested cattle growers are invited to witness the demonstration. These cattle will be checked again in February to determine the effectiveness of the spray.

Two Youngsters Hurt In Fall

Two youngsters were admitted to Memorial Hospital last night after sustaining broken arms in falls.

Frank Hockenberry, nine, of 108 Claybourne Street, suffered a fractured right wrist when he fell off a wall.

David Hanekamp, seven, RFD 2, city, fractured his right arm while playing football.

Appeal Filed

(Continued from Page 14) be no 'bumping.' Once a member of the department is assigned to a shift, he has no legal right to demand transfer to another shift. If the contrary were true, it would be impossible to operate the Police Department, due to fact that there would be no limitation on persons changing from one shift to another.

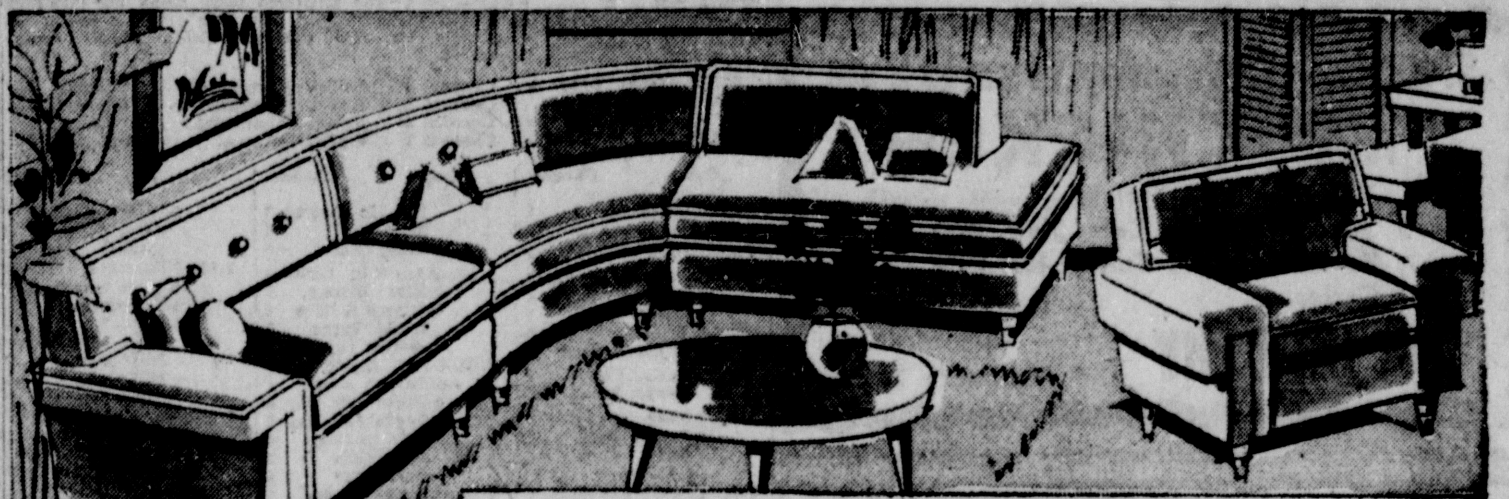

"Under the circumstances, it is my opinion that Officer Jenkins, as a matter of right, cannot transfer from one shift to another; however, under present procedures, he can apply for a transfer at such time as a vacancy occurs in a particular shift to which he would like to be assigned."

U.S. Optimism At Geneva

A mood of real optimism pervades the U. S. delegation to the fifth general tariff-bargaining conference to be held under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), which the United States helped to form in 1947. The Geneva talks, to oversimplify slightly, are being held to renegotiate old trade concessions and to argue out new ones, and the United States stands to come out better than in the past. Moreover, real progress toward freer world trade is expected—and freer trade has been a basic tenet of U. S. foreign policy for at least the past quarter of a century.

American critics of GATT have often charged that we gave more than we got in reciprocal tariff adjustments. Inasmuch as restrictive quotas of our foreign customers frequently nullified tariff concessions worked out under GATT, these critics have argued with a good deal of reason. But our customers—in part at the express urging of a special GATT committee—have lifted most of the restrictions on dollar imports. So concessions negotiated in the past are beginning to work out more favorably for us. And at Geneva new avenues of trade are expected to be opened for U. S. exports.

The trade diplomats at Geneva will be working into the existing framework of agreements the presence of the European Common Market (the Inner Six)—France, West Germany, Italy, and the Benelux nations—which will negotiate in the Tariff Conference as a unit. Representatives of the rival European Free Trade Association (the Outer Seven)—Great Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Austria, and Portugal—will deal separately, but the weight of EFTA will be felt at Geneva.

The U. S. delegation holds high hope that in the GATT interplay between the Six and the Seven, discrimination against U. S. imports which both in effect are imposing will be considerably diminished.

The Urban Problem

City life is becoming the concern not only of politicians but of sociologists and economists. Cities are increasing in population, but every city has blighted areas, slums, places unfit for human habitation; on the other hand, cities are the centers of culture and progress in the arts and sciences.

At a meeting of the Academy of Political Science, urban problems were discussed by several experts. Of particular concern was the fact that cities strangle themselves by improper utilization of transportation facilities. Professor James Marston Fitch, of Columbia University, said:

"... Subjected to a whole set of anarchic and destructive forces, the city is expected to prove itself, medieval style, in a kind of trial by fire and water. If it survives, this theory seems to go, well and good; if it succumbs, good riddance. This preposterous attitude permits the subsidy of all sorts of forces hostile to the city and yet forbids any defensive response. Thus no one sees anything improper in the Federal Government's spending 35 billions to move automobiles into the city. Yet respectable opinion pretends to be outraged at the obvious corollary—that is, that there should be free tax-supported parking facilities to receive these cars once they have been dumped into the city."

The fact of the matter is that unless our cities discover a method for handling the enormous and apparently impossible traffic problem, the practical question has to be solved as to how people can live in cities. Transportation is the essence of the urban problem. It makes no sense to put up superior housing and then make it impractical for people to get to work on time, with some convenience. No large American city has handled its transportation problem with any satisfaction.

Most of the great cities of the world were built near rivers, on the shores of harbors or bays and later at the juncture of railroads. Few of them were planned. Most of them grew haphazard, with streets of varying sizes and in many different directions.

Naturally, old cities had no streets built for two or four-lane automobile traffic. In fact, some streets are so narrow in older cities that there is not enough room for single-lane automobile traffic. The scarcity of garages and the unwillingness of the public to pay for garage space reduce lanes of traffic by excessive parking on streets. Cities have increasing difficulty in handling this problem. In fact, motorists, in despair, disobey the law and take their chances on getting tickets.

Largely because of the parking of cars, our cities have become filthy. Sanitation departments find that they can only clean those parts of streets which are uncovered by cars. Children cannot play on the streets and special playgrounds have to be provided for them in parks or in schoolyards at a distance from their homes.

Cities will survive. Those who believe that they can solve the urban problem by running away from it are like the people in Northern cities who feel that they have solved their own racial problems by moving to the suburbs. The Negroes flee from the city to the suburbs, too.

Cities exist because they are convenient. They exist because they are markets, because they are organized, because they provide centers of culture as well as work. Louis Winnick, Executive Director, New York State Commission on Economic Expansion, says of this:

"... the city by virtue of its numbers, variety and extreme concentration becomes the habitat of the shared production agent. Many of these productive agents such as buildings, mass transit, communication lines, and water and sewer mains constitute a fixed investment too costly to be readily duplicated elsewhere. Because it is immobile and not easy to reproduce, this massive quantity of physical capital becomes almost equivalent to a natural resource, both attracting and anchoring those industries which can find no better or cheaper substitutes. Any tendency, for example, for financial establishments to leave New York City would be held in check not only by close linkages to each other, but also by a complex and expensive underground network of telephone and telegraph lines radiating to every part of the globe..."

Those who move into the suburbs of the large American cities soon find that the city catches up with them. It is more constructive to improve the cities and to make them modern.

More And More Out Of Reach

Some Endorsements Could Mean "Kiss Of Death"

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Some endorsements in a political campaign could mean the "kiss of death" to a presidential candidate among groups of voters who are antagonized by the action.

The AFL-CIO has just endorsed Senator Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, and so has the radical organization which calls itself "Americans For Democratic Action" but which believes in centralized government.

There are 13,500,000 members in the AFL-CIO and, while the general board which voted the endorsement cannot "deliver" the votes of its members, the impression sought to be conveyed is that it can. In fact the AFL-CIO maintains a close watch on roll calls in Congress and in every campaign points to whether a member has gone down the line for union labor or has failed to support its proposals. The citizens are supposed to reward by their votes in the presidential and congressional elections the candidates who have supported the cause of labor. It isn't a "bought and paid for" arrangement in the sense that a money bribe is offered or accepted, but the truth is that many millions of dollars are collected from union members by the AFL-CIO leaders acting in behalf of supposedly separate political organizations. These funds are contributed to state and local as well as national election campaigns in support of those candidates who have a record of doing the bidding of the trade-union leaders.

Senator Kennedy says he is "proud of the endorsement," and one wonders if this means that, if elected, he will feel beholden to the AFL-CIO. The Democratic platform has already pledged that the next Congress will enact legislation taking away from 20 states their right to keep on the statute books — and in their constitutions — a provision enabling a worker to join or not to join a union without risking punishment through the loss of his job. The custom is for the labor unions to threaten costly strikes against employers who refuse to sign an agreement to fire anyone who doesn't join a union.

If the National Association of Manufacturers or the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, using the prestige of their positions in the business world, were to announce that they endorsed Vice President Nixon, the labor press would be the first to jump on them as having made a "deal" with the Republican presidential candidate to help him get elected in return for the support he would give measures they favor.

While many businessmen as individuals will be for the Nixon-Lodge ticket, they do not in their trade organizations make any such endorsement or formally call on their members to support a candidate. In fact, until recent years the American Federation of Labor itself would be the most part avoid endorsement of any presidential nominees. This policy was proclaimed for the AFL by the late Samuel Gompers who, though making no secret of his own preferences, avoided any commitment by his national labor organization.

It is ironical that the Gompers doctrine is now being reversed in many other ways. Thus, Mr. Gompers argued for years that no employer should have the right to make non-membership in a union a condition of employment, and finally Congress wrote such a prohibition into law. But now the labor unions themselves favor discrimination as long as it is in their favor. They oppose "right to work" laws on the specious argument that those who favor such laws would be able to interfere with collective bargaining, which simply isn't so, as the present laws guaranteeing the PUBLIC INTEREST—Congress drags on with little being accomplished in the public interest. As Senate wrangling goes on and on, the reconvened House of Representatives is finding it difficult to muster a quorum, necessary if any business is to be transacted by that body.

The House is the roadblock to several vital pieces of legislation, including federal aid to schools. Congressional observers believe that school aid has a fair chance of enactment in the next few weeks, but this view will change if the House does not get down to business soon.

This same shifting picture can be applied to some other measures, including a boost in minimum wages, public housing, and medical care for the aged.

The cold fact is that neither party in Congress is living up to the public's conception of political responsibility at the present moment.

Unless something happens soon, there is apt to be widespread public disillusionment with both parties. The result could be a smaller-than-anticipated total vote for the Presidential candidates in November, which further beclouds the outcome.

Spring Breezes, Baldness, And Spinal Discs

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A New Yorker writes, "Your apt remark—Spring is its own tonic"—has wide application. But how can a shut-in enjoy nice weather? Think also of the millions of persons living in the tropics for whom there never is any spring from the cradle to the grave. I have lived in Puerto Rico, Central America, and Mexico where the weather does not change as it does here."

I try to write for the well without discouraging the ill. The disabled could breathe deeply of the spring air through an open window or sit in the garden. They know their limitations and are adjusted to indoor living. Though the natives of the tropics are not familiar with spring weather, I'm certain they prefer the monotony of their climate to our winter snow, slush, and frigid temperatures. Furthermore, I doubt if any natives read this column to discover the tonic of spring.

L. B. thinks not enough people wiggle their ears; if more men and women did so, there would be less baldness, as ear wigging makes the scalp move and improves circulation. This possibility that baldness is due to impaired circulation of the scalp has been kicked around since man began to wear hats. The hat band is said to press on the blood vessels. Many persons believe this notion, even though the only men affected are those with inherited baldness. What about the people who wear hats and don't get bald? Furthermore, many baldies never wear hats.

I don't know what wigging the ears does to the hair follicles but the whole scalp moves when head lice are present—and pediculosis is rare in the bald.

M. B. of Illinois takes issue with my statement that 90 per cent of those operated on for ruptured disk are cured. She says from her own experience as well as observation of others, the percentage who recover from this operation is zero.

We have had dozens of laminectomies in the organization of which I am medical director, and only one poor result has come to my attention. My statistics of 90 per cent were obtained from reports by physicians who have seen thousands of cases. The operation does not cure all but there is no reason why those in the 10 per cent group of failures should conclude that no one has been helped.

Congressman Howard Smith Balks Efforts Of 100 U. S. Senators

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It really didn't make much difference what legislation the Senate passed during the rump session of Congress. Senators could debate and vote, vote and debate. What they did was all subject to nullification by one man—Howard Smith, the lean, Sherlock Holmes-looking Republican from northern Virginia.

As chairman of the rules committee, and under the antiquated rules of the House of Representatives, Smith can block almost any law. Of course he needed the votes of his Republican members, but they were delighted to stymie the Kennedy-Johnson election chances by backing Smith up on everything. Many Southern Democrats also were voting Republican now with the deliberate motive of hurting their own ticket in November.

All sorts of backstage moves were made to back Congressman Smith during the closing days of Congress.

House liberals tried until the last to get Smith to release federal aid to education, pigeonholed in the rules committee for months. Even Speaker Sam Rayburn was impotent.

"I'll do all I can to bring the bill out," Rayburn promised Democratic Reps. Lee Metcalf (Mont.), Chet Holifield (Calif.), and John Blatnik (Minn.). However, he got the cold shoulder when he broached the subject to Smith.

"The differences between the House and Senate versions of this school bill are too wide to resolve, in my opinion," declared the gentleman from Virginia.

"You should let the House decide that, Howard," said Rayburn.

"Look, Sam, I am not the only one who is holding up the bill," replied Smith. "There are four Republicans on the rules committee."

"I'm not trying to dictate to you," retorted Rayburn, "but unless you begin making some concessions to the Northern Democrats I seriously doubt that I will be able to stop a move, sure to be made in the next session of Congress, to reform your committee."

Congressional Dictator
At a closed-door meeting of the committee, Smith was much blunter when Democrats Ray Madden of Indiana and Thomas O'Neill of Massachusetts demanded consideration of the school aid and housing bills.

"The only legislation I will agree to consider is the minimum wage bill," declared Smith testily. "You can tell your liberal friends that they will get that—or nothing. If you try to bring up anything else here, I'll adjourn the meeting."

While this was going on, outspoken Democrat Roy Weir of Minnesota jovially braced Speaker Rayburn in the House cloakroom:

"Sam, you should let Howard Smith have his way. He will get the idea that he is the real boss of the House—not you."

"Sometimes it's a tough job trying to keep 280 Democratic members satisfied, as I must do as Speaker of the House," shot back Rayburn. "I notice that you fellows weren't able to supply the votes to override the President on several occasions. You needed only one additional vote to override his veto of that public works bill a couple of years ago, but you were unable to produce it."

Later, Rayburn came in for sharp criticism at an informal meeting of 20 members of the Democrats' "study group." Reps. Holifield, James Roosevelt of California and others decided that if the Speaker couldn't handle Smith they would take matters into their own hands at the next session of Congress with a move to reform the rules committee.

"There's too much difference in our leadership and it's flowing the wrong way," declared Metcalf of Montana. "It seems to go downstream all the time—from Rayburn to Smith—instead of the other way."

A reform of the House rules will be one of the biggest problems facing the next President no matter whether Nixon or Kennedy is elected.

FBI Shuns Politics
The FBI, always smart about keeping out of politics around election time, has disclaimed all responsibility for the disappearance of those two code clerks from the National Security Agency.

When the two men, Bernon Mitchell and William Martin, were traced to Mexico and Cuba, the Pentagon put out a statement indicating that they had slipped behind the Iron Curtain but that their disappearance was not important. Actually, the two men had access to our most guarded secrets—namely, how we code top secret messages and how we break the Russian codes. As a result of their mysterious exit, every code in every American Embassy has been changed at great expenses and considerable time.

But the FBI has made it clear that the two men were not investigated for security by the G-men. They were investigated by the Defense Department.

J. Edgar Hoover well remembers the savage attacks on Truman by both Eisenhower and Nixon in 1952 regarding alleged subversives in government. The disappearance of Mitchell and Martin is a far worse security breach than anything that happened under Truman, and the FBI is washing its hands of the two code clerks just in case the Democrats play back some of Nixon's old schemes.

Note—After the 1952 election, of course, the FBI did get involved in politics when Hoover sat alongside Attorney General Brownell as he made public the alleged record on the late Harry Dexter White as an attack on the Democrats. White, incidentally, never defected, never was proved a Communist. But the record of alleged leniency toward him was dashed out by Brownell with Hoover's public approval just at the moment in 1954 when the Republicans had lost a key Wisconsin Congressional seat to Democratic Congressman Lester Johnson and were worried sick over losing another seat in Los Angeles.

By Jim Bishop

The wonderful thing about Sam was that he knew everything about everything. Love, for instance. He knew that loving anyone else was futile, so he loved only himself. It was a loyal affection, almost touching. Next to himself, he had a high regard for money. Sam ran a New York night club and he took the customers as well as the employees for every dollar he could get.

He ran three shows a night, and had a good-looking chorus line. "Give the people what they want," he used to growl, "and they'll flock to see it." Sam always had a fading headliner to draw the customers, also a good young male singer, and a dizzy comedian or a dance act. Sam gave the people what they wanted, and they lined up nightly, hungry to be fleeced.

Sam despised everybody and did not try to hide it. He stood inside the front door, ordering the customers around, herding them into queues, a bald little man with a big roaring voice. If they complained, he merely pointed to the door. "Go," he would say, "Who needs ya?"

There was a stout woman attendant in the rest room. Sam fired her when he caught her keeping some of her tips. When a chorus girl began to show a few lines in her face, Sam put a friendly arm around her shoulder and had a talk with her. "You can't make it any more, honey," he would say. "You're beginning to show up in them bright lights. You been with me seven seasons, so I'll give you a good recommendation."

The headwaiter was a worried Frenchman named Henri. He had little white wings in his dark hair, and people liked him. He was a horse player and he was always in debt, so it was difficult for him when Sam let him go to give his brother-in-law a job. Sam did it only because he was tired of supporting his married sister.

Once in a while, Sam gave an unknown a chance. When this happened, he signed himself as manager, and took fifty per cent, then signed the kid into his White Way Club at $200 a week. If he liked the youngster, Sam would advance a little money at six for five per week.

Still, he had his softer side. It is a matter of record that, year in and year out, Sam gave $10 to the Red Cross, $10 to Catholic Charities, $10 to the Jewish Home for the Aged, and $10 to the National Foundation.

He opened his heart equally to all.

Sam never married because, as he said, "Dames is for suckers." He lived alone in a little flat over the club. He had a few close friends and played gin at a tenth of a cent a point. Those who beat him didn't remain close. Those who lost were surprised to find that Sam had invested in a high fidelity set and liked good music. One night Sam was in the office of the White Way after closing hours. He hated to waste time, but he was wasting it this time, because he was going over his books and he had only about ten minutes to live. His desk light was on, and he ran down the columns of figures swiftly, the point of the moving pencil aimed at each digit in turn.

The figures were fat, but it brought no smile to Sam's scowl. He was working up a trial balance sheet when all the lights went out. Sam's head fell on the blotter, and he sighed like a tired baby. The hand still held the pencil. He remained in this position until the cleaning women arrived in the morning.

The newspapers gave Sam quite a play because he was a well-known club owner. Two of them published one-column cuts of Sam's hateful features. A few old-time stars were quoted as saying that Sam was the last of the old Prohibition barons and would be missed. Like Prohibition, perhaps.

The funeral was announced for the following afternoon at Campbell's up on Madison Avenue. There were no flowers, except the palm fronds that usually ornament such festivities. Sam looked younger in repose. And he no longer scowled.

The big surprise was that so many people were present. The place was crowded for the short service. To some it seemed a waste to have the cleric pray for Sam, because he wouldn't want heaven unless he could buy into it and throw a five dollar cover charge on the place.

Outside, the mobs made room for the funeral cortege. Everyone was there, including the stout woman who had been fired, and Henri, the headwaiter, and some of the unknowns who remained unknown. The stout woman looked at the crowd and shook her head. "How come," she said to Henri, "that so many people are here?"

Henri smiled. "Sam had the answer to that," he said. "Give the people what they want, and they'll flock to see it."

Ernie Banks' 37th Home Run Defeats Reds

Blow In 9th Frame Whips Nuxhall, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP)—Ernie Banks hit a 37th homer, on a 3 and 2 pitch, off lefty Joe Nuxhall to open the last half of the ninth inning, po-

Banks' blast, a towering fly in the left field bleachers, saddle Nuxhall with his seventh loss as a rookie right-hander Joe Schaffel. Nuxhall got his second win again.

Both Nuxhall and Schaffernoth were working in relief of sidelined starters, Jimmy O'Toole for the Reds and Glen Hobbie for the Cubs.

The homer, giving Banks a total of 104 RBI's, also pulled the slugger shortstop into a tie with Bill Nicholson for fifth place among the Cubs' all-time extra base hits.

Carolyn Schuler And Bill Mulliken Score In Olympics

Gold Medals Captured By U.S. Natators

Bennett Sets Swim Mark; Track Events Will Start Today

By TED SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP)—Carolyn Schuler and Bill Mulliken gave United States Olympic hopes a tremendous boost Tuesday night by winning gold medals in swimming competition.

Miss Schuler, a 17-year-old high school girl from Orinda, Calif., won the women's 100-meter butterfly final in Olympic record time of 1:09.5 in an event marred by a mishap to 14-year-old Carolyn Wood of Portland, Ore.

Mulliken, the 21-year-old 1959 Pan American champ from Champaign, Ill. who set a record in the 200-meter breast stroke Friday, came with a smashing finish in the final in 2:37.4, two tenths of a second slower than the record.

The sparkling performance by the two swimmers boosted the U.S. total to three gold medals, all in swimming and diving competition.

Russia Holds Lead

At the completion of 22 events, Russia and Italy each had five gold medals, the U.S. and Germany three each, Australia two and Hungary, Denmark, Great Britain and Sweden one each.

In the unofficial point scores, Russia had 96 points, Germany, 83, United States 72, Italy 68 and Hungary 39.

The U.S. also gained an unexpected third in the foil of men's fencing captured by Albert Axelrod of Scarsdale, N.Y., and showed a two-four punch in the women's high dive, won by Germany's golden girl, Ingrid Kravitz, who became the first double winner of the 1960 games.

Bob Beck, a bespectacled 23-year-old U.S. Navy lieutenant from San Diego, Calif., took over the individual lead in the modern pentathlon and the U.S. team was a surprisingly strong second to Hungary with only one event to go. The final event is the cross country run tomorrow. Beck took the individual lead with a fine performance in the 300-meter freestyle swim.

Bennett Sets Record

Bob Bennett, a 17-year-old schoolboy from Encino, Calif., cracked the Olympic record with a 1:02 while qualifying for the 100-meter backstroke semifinals. Frank McKinney of Indianapolis also made the grade.

Miss Schuler's victory in the butterfly was marred by an unhappy accident to Miss Wood who was in strong contention at the turn on the 50-meter mark. She bumped into a lane buoy and was thoroughly lost in the race after swallowing a mouthful of water. She swam slowly to the finish wall and rushed behind the diving platform where she buried her face in her hands.

It was a day of tears and disappointment for the two United States high divers as Miss Kramer added this title to the springboard crown she won earlier. Mrs. Paula Jean Pope, competing in her third games, finished second just as she had done in the springboard event. Miss Kramer had 91.28 points and Mrs. Pope 89.94. The U.S. had won the event seven straight times since 1924.

Never have Olympic records been smashed so completely as in the men's 400 meter freestyle swimming preliminaries. Every one of six heat winners was well under the mark of 4:27.3 set in 1956 by Murray Rose of Australia, with Alan Somers of Indianapolis, Ind., capping it off by taking the final heat in the best time of all, 4:19.2.

The Netherlands set an Olympic record in the women's medley relay by the simple fact the event was being competed for the first time. The Dutch did 4:47.7 and the United States easily qualified for the finals with 4:49.3.

Score In Cycling

Russia won an unexpected gold medal in cycling, a sport usually dominated by west Europeans. Viktor Kapitonov finished just inches ahead of Italy's Livio Trappe at the end of the 175.3 kilometer (108.6 miles) road race in the time of four hours, 20 minutes, 37 seconds.

Rome's searing heat wave broke slightly on this fifth day of competition. The temperature went no higher than 87.8 after six straight days of 90 plus.

To many persons it seemed as if the United States was off to a poor start in these games, but actually the Americans have done just about as well as they expected in swimming, and stand to pick up points they never hoped to get in the modern pentathlon.

Wednesday Big Day

Past games have always opened with track and field which sent the United States away to a flying start. These events get under way Wednesday with America's great track team sure to garner a batch of gold medals.

The Wednesday program also will include finals in men's swimming in the 400-meter free style and the 100-meter backstroke as well as the conclusion of the modern pentathlon and a series of rowing preliminaries.

Jimmy Slattery, Former Boxing Champion, Dies

1927 Light-Heavy Winner Found Dead In Buffalo Hotel

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—Jimmy Slattery, whose flashing fists carried him to the pinnacle of the boxing world and whose love of the bright lights just as quickly stripped him of both fame and fortune, died in his sleep Tuesday.

Exactly 33 years from the day he won the light-heavyweight title from Maxie Rosenbloom, Slattery was found dead in his room in a small hotel off Buffalo's main stem. The manager of the hotel, investigating Slattery's failure to arise at his usual hour, discovered his body sprawled between a bed and a chair.

A coroner's report said pulmonary tuberculosis, an enemy against whom Slattery waged a losing battle for years, had finally wrested the last breath from the once-splendid physique which carried the dancing master through 122 professional fights with only 12 losses.

In recent years, the 56-year-old Slattery had lived quietly in the small downtown hotel, far removed from the roar and applause of fight crowds. Only a shadow of the once handsome Irishman with the rapier-like speed, he contentedly worked for the Buffalo Parks Department, grooming roses in Delaware Park.

Jimmy's record showed 62 wins by decision, 42 knockouts, one draw, two no decision and two no contest bouts, eight losses by decision and four knockouts at the hands of opponents.

Neale Fraser Seeded No. 1 For National

Laver Ranked 2nd And MacKay Third

NEW YORK (AP)—Australia's Neale Fraser was seeded No. 1 Tuesday for the National Singles tennis championship which opens a 10-day run at Forest Hills Friday—but more off his record of last year than anything he has accomplished in 1960.

Rod Laver, who has won all four major U.S. grass courts titles this season, was seeded No. 2. He is on a hot streak and the Aussies are counting on him even more than Fraser.

Third place in the seedings went to Big Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, followed by his Davis Cup mate, Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis. Tut Bartzan, Davis Cup co-captain, was ranked No. 2, followed by Emerson, Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn and Bobby Wilson of Great Britain.

Maria Ester Bueno, the poker-faced stylist from Brazil is seeded No. 1 in the women's division. British Wightman Cupper Ann Haydon follows the defending champion, Christine Truman. Miss Haydon's teammate, is No. 3.

Top United States hope is veteran Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., seeded No. 4. Karen Hanstze of San Diego, Calif., is No. 5.

County Series Game, Halted In 2nd By Rain, Is Continued Today

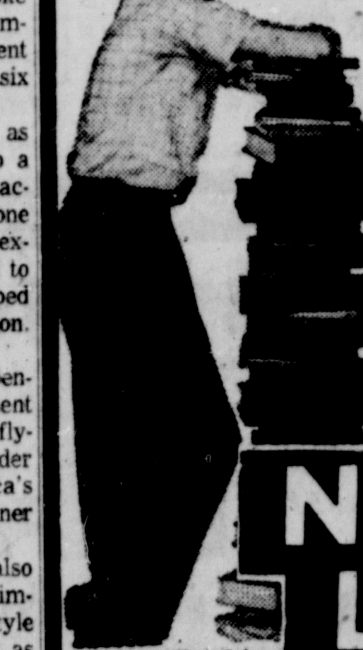

Rain halted the "rubber" game of the County Softball League series between the Greenpoint Inn Old Exports and Stringtown yesterday at Narrows Park in the top of the second inning after Jerry Stair, of Stringtown, had led off with a single.

The game will be continued from the point of interruption today at 6 p. m. at Narrows Park. Curt Hosselrode was the Stringtown pitcher and Junior Breisford was twirling for Greenpoint Inn.

The winner of this series meets Ellerslie in the finals. Greenpoint won the first game, 2-1, and Stringtown copped the second, 1-0.

Bee colonies heavily infected with American foulbrood frequently will abandon their diseased brood and seek other quarters.

The principalships at Bayard and Dorcas Grade Schools have not yet been filled. Girls physical education teaching post and two positions in English at Petersburg High School, likewise, have not yet been filled. It is reported that several other teachers resigned last week and their successors have not yet been named.

Resignations have been accepted from Thomas Andrick, Mrs. Victoria Alkire, Delmer Schell, Jesse Jenkins and Miss Martha Bomberger.

All students in the county registered yesterday except the sophomores, juniors and seniors of Petersburg High School who will come to school for the first day today.

At the pre-school meeting of teachers at Petersburg Grade School Monday, representatives from the companies which publish the spelling and science textbooks used in the schools presented their books. Group meetings in subject areas will be held for improving instruction and planning the work for the year.

The school calendar lists the following days on which schools will be closed:

September 5, Labor Day; November 8, Election Day; November 11, Veteran's Day; Thanksgiving vacation November 24-29 inclusive; Christmas vacation December 23-January 2 inclusive; Good Friday, March 31. Schools will be in session 175 days, with four holidays and one day for a teacher's meeting.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Evening up traditions and selling based on good weather reports carried most grains earlier on the Board of Trade. The September corn contract reached new seasonal low. Oats, rye and feed corn futures held steady.

At the final bell, wheat was off 1/4; corn off 1/4 to 1/2; oats off 1/4 to 1/2; rye unchanged to 1/2; and beans off 1/4 to 1/2.

Two factors caused some uncertainty in the market. Wednesday is both a delivery notice day for September deliveries and a day for work contracts. Chicago grain elevator workers.

Most trading interest in wheat centered in spreading operations. A commission broker bought September and sold May at 11 1/2 cents difference. Some commission houses sold, while elevators bought. Exporters said Poland took 500,000 cals of red and Portugal 750,000 cals of hard wheat.

Commission houses bought corn. Corn was warm and fair weather ruled in the crop areas, and cash and local were sellers.

Grains were fairly active and commission houses sold September. Interest abated September and sold March at 3/4 cents difference. Shorter.

Lower meal prices and selling cover from Monday pushed nearby deliveries down. Commercial buyers bought and sold November. The CCC office sold 362,000 bushels of oats firm.

The Continent reportedly paid 4,000 tons of soybeans. Britain 1 1/2, 250,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

City Drenched By Nearly Two Inches Of Rain

Subways Flooded As Dry Spell Ends

Nearly two inches of rain which drenched Cumberland last night broke a long dry spell, flooded two local subways, lifted manhole covers from city streets, and washed rocks, dirt and debris onto the 1600 block of Frederick Street making travel almost impossible.

U. S. Route 40 along the west slope of Martin Mountain was covered with rocks washed onto the highway by the rain, which did considerable damage to the road construction work in the Belle Grove section.

Robert Golden, weather observer here, said that during a two-hour period, 1.80 inches of rain fell, which was about half of the total rainfall recorded in Cumberland during the entire month of August.

The first heavy rain fell about 5:35 p. m., and the drenching downpour occurred about an hour later and lasted about half an hour.

The electrical storm which accompanied the rain caused trouble in electric power in the city and outlying rural areas.

A spokesman for the Potomac Edison Company said there was no major trouble due to the storm, although some spotty disruption of power was reported. The lights flickered during the height of the storm.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company reported no trouble in the city.

2 Subways Flooded
Police said the subways at Win-eow Street and Greene Street were flooded, although traffic moved through the subways at a slow pace.

Quite a few manhole covers were lifted from their bases, according to police, who said the covers were lifted along Frederick Street, Baltimore Avenue at Decatur, Williams Street at Maryland Avenue, and Louisiana Avenue at Kent Avenue.

They said a motorist was traveling in the vicinity of Louisiana and Kent avenues when one of the wheels of his car dropped into the manhole, ruining a tire.

The streets department was called into action with a payload-er and truck to clear the dirt, rock and debris from the 1600 block of Frederick Street.

The traffic along that main artery was slowed down and the street was almost impassable, but workers cleared up the mess.

State Police at LaVale barracks said no traffic accidents were reported although quite a bit of rock and debris was washed onto the west slope of Martin Mountain where a road construction program began early in June.

Debris Cleaned Up
Workers of the Groves Construction Company were busy last night cleaning up the debris on Route 40 in the Belle Grove section.

Mr. Golden said quite a bit of damage was caused by the down-pour at Constitution Park.

He said the high temperature for the day was 90 degrees. During the storm the temperature dropped about 20 degrees to cool things off.

Mr. Golden pointed out that over four inches of rain fell in Cumberland during August when the normal rainfall is 3.48 inches. Last night's rain broke a dry spell of about two weeks, he said.

A Lonaconing resident reported that the rain in that community did not amount to much. Ball games were played in area communities which apparently had no rain.

Local Apiarist Tells How To Make Beeswax Candles

By RICHARD GESSELL
TIMONIUM, Md. (AP)—An agile 74-year-old Cumberland man has perfected a new way of making candles by rolling bees wax around a wick. They may not last as long, but they are cheaper and never drip or warp.

John H. Lindner, a Cumberland resident all his life, keeps about 700 hives in his and neighboring yards. Most of his production goes into bottled honey, but now he plans to produce candles for anyone who wants them.

"I was just sitting around one night when I found you could make candles by rolling the bees wax," he said.

He said most commercial candles are made by a dipping or molding process. As far as he knows, he said, this is the first time anyone has made a candle by the rolling technique.

He explained the process this way:
Take a flat piece of bees wax

Appeal Filed To Civil Service Board Ruling
Shift Transfer Is Sought By Officer

An appeal has been filed in Allegheny County Circuit Court here by a veteran police officer from a decision of the Civil Service Commission of Cumberland that police personnel do not have the right to displace other patrolmen serving on another shift.

The appeal was filed for Officer Pressley Carl Jenkins, 200 Glenn Street, Monday by Thomas N. Berry, local attorney.

The City of Cumberland will file records of the Civil Service Commission in the case with the Circuit Court.

The data was prepared yesterday at the conference between William R. Carscaden, city attorney, and Wallace G. Ullery, secretary of the commission.

He said the present red neon tubes which form the "Walk" signal will be changed to green, the conventional "Go" color, to avoid misunderstandings which arose from the use of red.

He said boxes in which the foot traffic signals are enclosed will be cleaned when the new tubing is installed.

Route 40 and Route 28 signs, the commissioner added, will be placed soon on Baltimore Street. They will be suspended beside directional arrows installed recently.

Lightning Hits Rectory, Starts Blaze In Attic

St. Mary's Scene Of Minor Fire

A bolt of lightning struck St. Mary's rectory, 300 Oldtown Road, last night during the electrical rainstorm, causing damage to the attic of the two-story brick dwelling, firemen said.

South End firemen received a call at 7:10 p. m. when the lightning hit the rectory and burned some joists in the attic.

They said the bolt apparently followed some wiring into the building. The damage was confined to an area in the ceiling where the wiring had been in-stalled near a former gas pipe used to illuminate the building years ago.

Two wooden bracing struts and lath were also burned.

Firemen said someone in the rectory noticed smoke around the electrical receptacle and attempted to quench the blaze with an extinguisher. The firemen were on the scene about half an hour.

East Side firemen were called to 102 Columbia Street at 7:13 p. m. after a drain at that address clogged up. The firemen said considerable water damage was done to the bedroom of the upstairs apartment and some water seeped to the first floor.

Neighbors pitched in and mopped up the apartment, according to the firemen, who made sure the electricity in the apartment was turned off.

He said boxes in which the foot traffic signals are enclosed will be cleaned when the new tubing is installed.

Injuries Fatal To B&O Man Hurt August 14
A 62-year-old local B & O railroad, who was critically injured August 14 in an accident near Terra Alta, W. Va., died about 6 p. m. yesterday in Preston Memorial Hospital in Kingwood.

Harley S. Logue, 415 Central Avenue, was thrown head first through a caboose window when a freight train stopped abruptly near Terra Alta, authorities said.

A physician on the scene said the victim had glass lodged in his head, and sent him for surgery at the hospital where he had been admitted in critical condition.

Another man, Eugene Kesner of Keyser, W. Va., suffered a broken ankle in the accident and was taken to the hospital.

Officials in Terra Alta were not certain to the reason the train made the emergency stop which resulted in the accident.

Police Chief Joseph Sissler, who was called to the scene, said he was informed the westbound freight suddenly received a red light as it neared Terra Alta.

The engineer threw the train into "emergency stop" but the emergency did not react immediately, the officer said. When the brake did react, it caught the men in the caboose unexpectedly.

A native of Berkeley Springs, W. Va., the victim was born on July 12, 1897 and was a son of the late John and Susan (Shepard) Logue.

His wife, Mrs. Blanche Myrtle Logue preceded him in death. He is survived by six sons and six daughters.

Wrecked Plane, Bodies Of Four Found In Woods

Identification Still Lacking

SOMERSET, Pa. (UPI) — The charred wreckage of a Cessna plane with four bodies was found Tuesday in a remote wooded area in the mountains of south-western Pennsylvania.

The wreckage was confined within an area of 25 feet. Only the tail section was intact with the numbers 8914 T untouched by flames. That was the number of the plane registered in the name of Henry S. Griffing, Oklahoma City movie - television executive and attorney who disappeared with his wife and two children.

The Griffing plane was last seen Aug. 16 when it took off from Teterboro, N. J. bound for Oklahoma City.

Harry Mitchell, radio news-caster from Somerset, was with state police and officials from the Somerset County sheriff's office when the plane was found.

Bodies Charr'd
"The bodies were still in the plane and were burned beyond recognition," Mitchell said. "The plane apparently struck a tree, crashed and burst into flames."

The search party pushed through the rugged terrain to the location of the crash after being notified of the discovery by Arthur Poorbaugh, a lumber firm owner.

Poorbaugh was inspecting a lumber tract when he came upon the wreckage earlier Tuesday.

State police said but for Poorbaugh's discovery, the plane might not have been found until the November hunting season.

Coroner Herbert Helverson and Sheriff Norman F. Walker ordered the bodies placed in a hearse and taken to Somerset for positive identification.

Isolated Site
The site of the wreckage is near the Somerset-Bedford County line and is about 2,900 feet above sea level.

Dale Skillman, aeronautical investigator for the state police, accompanied the searches.

Poorbaugh was striding through the woods about 10 miles from the nearest highway when he made the discovery.

"It looks like the plane had hit a hillside," Poorbaugh said. "From its position it appeared it was traveling from east to west."

Pennsylvania had been a focal point in the search for Griffing's Cessna plane which was last heard from Aug. 16 when it took off from Teterboro, N.J., en route to Oklahoma City. Griffing was accompanied by his wife, daughter and son.

Earlier Tuesday, a deaf mute led searchers through a swampy, wooded area near Rainelle, W. Va., where he reported seeing a wrecked plane. State troopers said the youth led them to a swamp area but could go no further.

"There is no doubt he has seen a plane," police said, "but he just doesn't know how to get back to it."

Griffing and his family left Teterboro, N.J., en route for their home Aug. 16 and had not been heard from since.
